Lucky Beauty Homepage

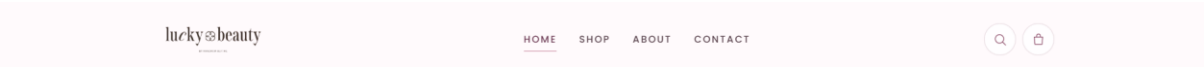

A single-page brand site for a Filipino-inspired makeup line, built with HTML, custom CSS and Bootstrap 5.

Lucky Beauty is a webpage for a Filipino-inspired makeup brand built around the idea of “finding your lucky glow.” It opens with a soft pink hero and a product photo, then tells the brand story through founder Andrea Brillantes inside a Bootstrap image carousel, showing that the products are vegan, cruelty-free and made to help you feel good in your own skin. From there you can browse three product categories (Lucky Lips, Lucky Glow and Lucky Eyes), read three short promises about what makes the brand different, look through a new FAQ accordion, and finish at a footer with social links, an email contact and a newsletter signup.

The layout, spacing and card grids are now built on the Bootstrap 5.3 grid system instead of hand-written CSS Grid/Flexbox, while the color palette (blush pink, plum #683037, and warm off-white #FFF9F5), the Playfair Display and Poppins type pairing, and all of the custom section styling still come from the project's own style.css.

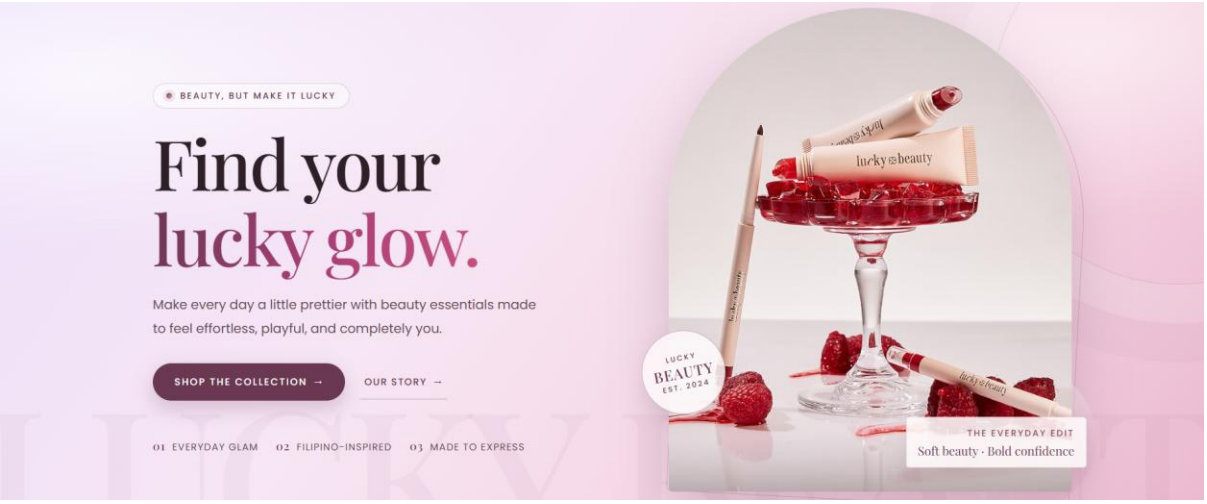

1. Header and navigation

A Bootstrap navbar (navbar navbar-expand-lg) with the logo, four anchor links and two icon shortcuts. Below the lg breakpoint it collapses behind a hamburger toggler so nothing gets squeezed on phones and tablets.

- Links: Home, Shop, About, Contact — anchor links that scroll to section IDs.
- Active state: the current link (Home) is marked with the is-active class and aria-current="page".
- Icons: search and bag, drawn as inline SVG inside the navbar; both currently point to #shop.
- Collapse behavior: the navbar-toggler button uses Bootstrap's data-bs-toggle="collapse" to show/hide the #mainNav menu — this now depends on the Bootstrap JS bundle rather than custom script.
- Skip link: a .skip-link shows up on keyboard focus and jumps to #main.

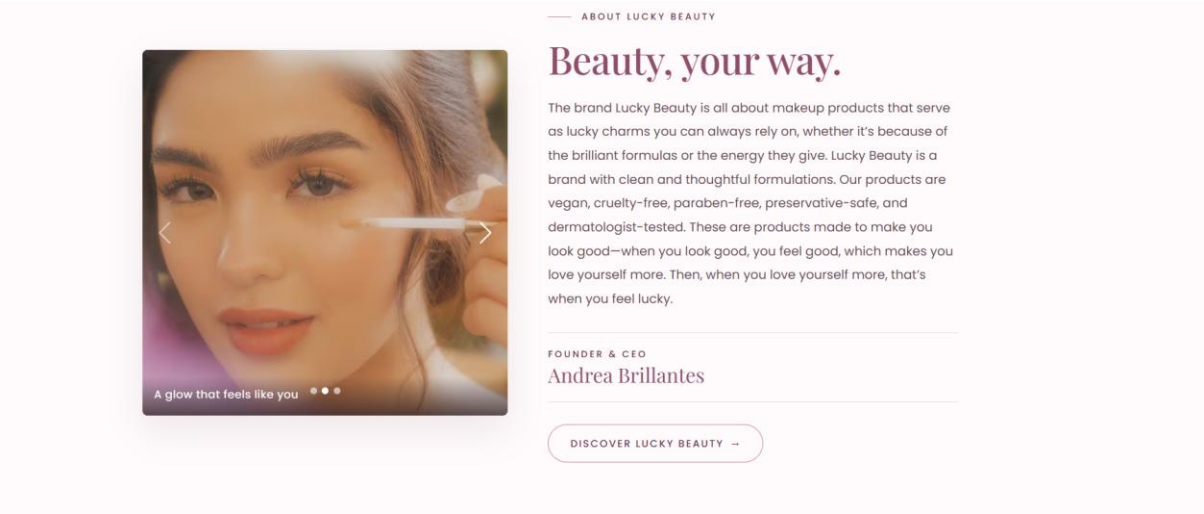

2. Hero

A Bootstrap row (row align-items-center g-5) with two col-lg-6 columns: headline/copy on one side, an arch-shaped product photo on the other. Columns stack automatically on phones and tablets below the lg breakpoint.

- Badge: “Beauty, but make it lucky”.
- Headline: “Find your lucky glow.” with a plum-to-pink gradient on the second line (.gradient-text).
- Buttons: “Shop the collection” (solid, links to #shop) and “Our story” (text link, links to #about).
- Highlights: Everyday glam, Filipino-inspired, Made to express.
- Decor: a rotated “Lucky Beauty Est. 2024” stamp and a caption card sit over the product photo.

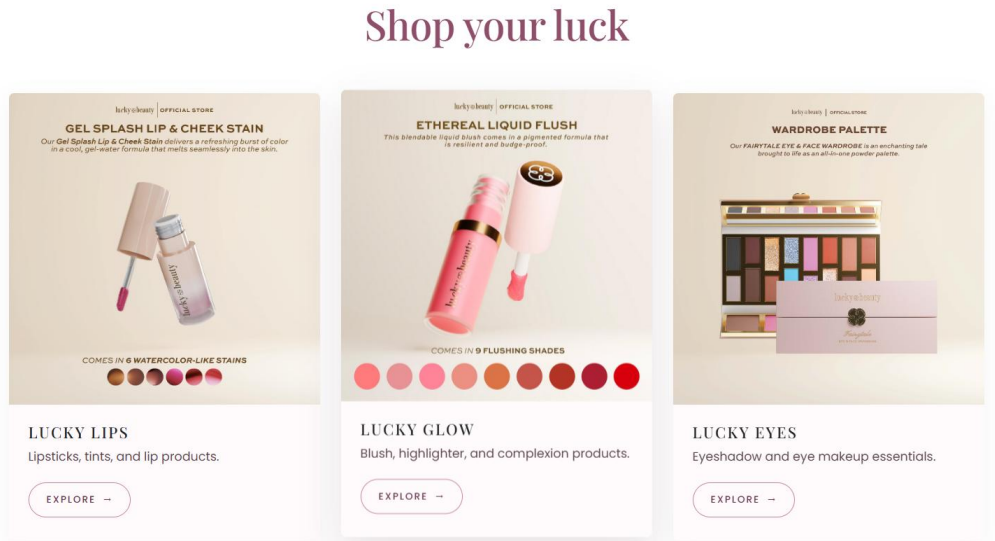

3. About

Previously a single static portrait; this is now a Bootstrap carousel (#aboutCarousel, data-bs-ride="carousel") cycling through three brand photos with captions, next to the brand story copy.

- Carousel slides: “Clean, thoughtful formulas,” “A glow that feels like you,” “Made to make you feel lucky.”
- Controls: previous/next arrows and three indicator dots, all wired through Bootstrap's carousel data attributes (needs the Bootstrap JS bundle to auto-advance and respond to clicks).
- Claims: vegan, cruelty-free, paraben-free, preservative-safe, dermatologist-tested.
- Founder: Andrea Brillantes, Founder & CEO.
- Button: “Discover Lucky Beauty” (outline style, links to #shop).

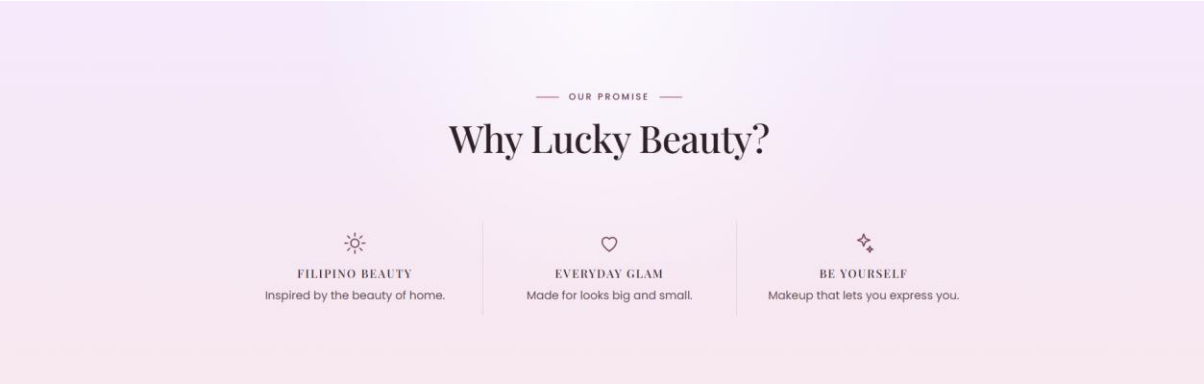

4. Shop

Three Bootstrap cards (card product-card) inside a responsive row (row-cols-1 row-cols-sm-2 row-cols-md-3 g-4): one column on small phones, two from 576px, three from 768px up.

- Lucky Lips: lipsticks, tints and lip products.
- Lucky Glow: blush, highlighter and complexion products.
- Lucky Eyes: eyeshadow and eye makeup essentials.
- Each card has an Explore button; all currently point to #contact until real product pages exist.

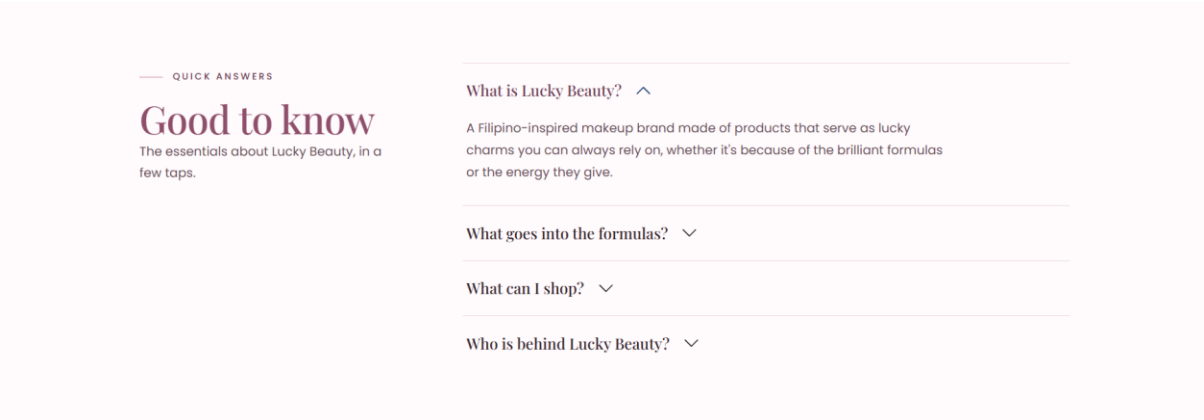

5. Why Lucky Beauty

Three short promises in a Bootstrap row (row-cols-1 row-cols-md-3 g-4): a single column on phones and small tablets, three even columns from 768px up.

- Filipino beauty: inspired by the beauty of home.
- Everyday glam: made for looks big and small.
- Be yourself: makeup that lets you express you.

6. Good to know (new FAQ section)

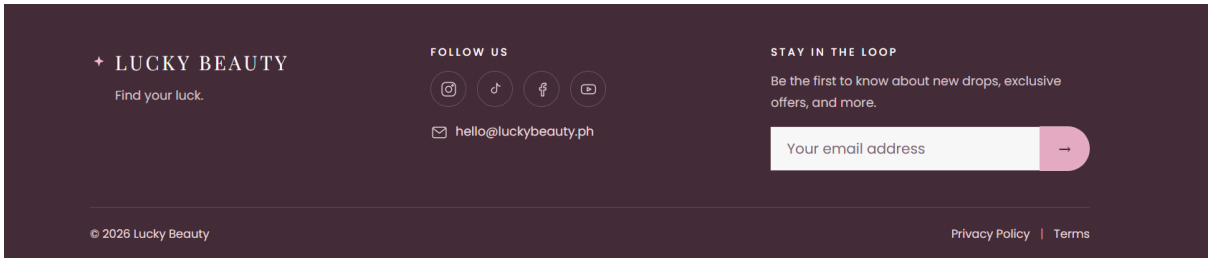

A section not in the original design: a Bootstrap accordion (accordion accordion-flush) answering four common questions, sitting in a two-column row (col-lg-4 intro / col-lg-8 accordion) that stacks on phones and tablets.

- What is Lucky Beauty? — brand summary.

- What goes into the formulas? — vegan, cruelty-free, paraben-free, preservative-safe, dermatologist-tested.
- What can I shop? — Lucky Lips, Lucky Glow, Lucky Eyes.
- Who is behind Lucky Beauty? — founder credit for Andrea Brillantes.
- Behavior: only one answer opens at a time (data-bs-parent groups them); expand/collapse depends on the Bootstrap JS bundle.

7. Footer and contact

A dark plum footer that also serves as the Contact section (#contact), laid out in a Bootstrap row of three columns: brand, social/contact, and newsletter signup.

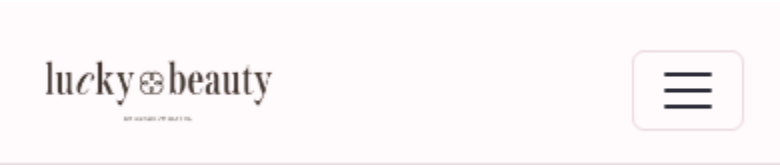

- Brand: logo mark and the tagline “Find your luck.”
- Social: Instagram, TikTok, Facebook, YouTube icons, plus hello@luckybeauty.ph.
- Newsletter: an email field with an arrow submit button (signup form, not wired to a backend yet).
- Bottom bar: © 2026 Lucky Beauty, Privacy Policy and Terms.
- Column widths: brand and signup are full width on phones while social sits at half width; on tablets the three columns share the row unevenly (half / quarter / quarter); from 992px up all three are equal thirds.

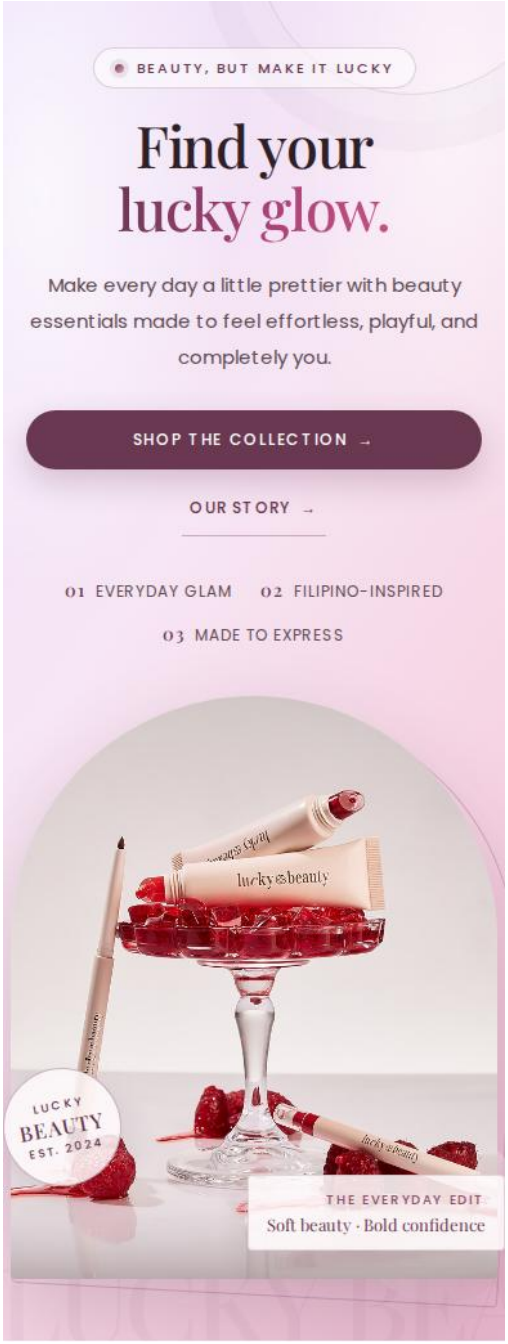

Responsiveness

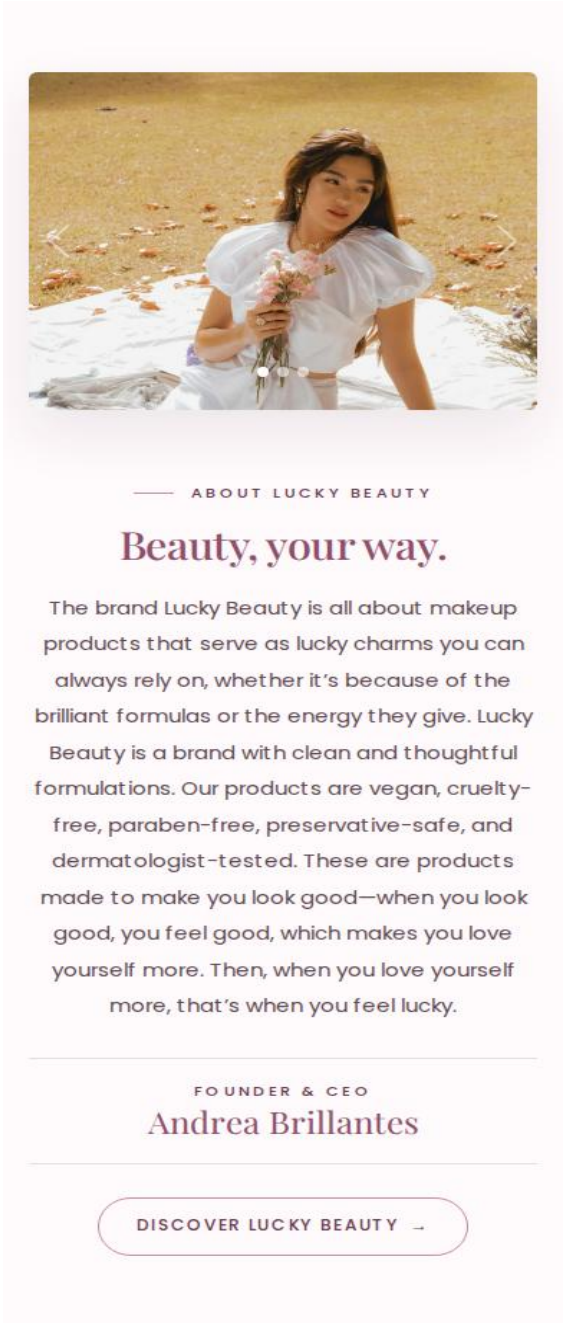

Mobile-first, using Bootstrap 5's default grid breakpoints instead of hand-written media queries. The .container caps the page width and re-centers at each breakpoint.

Breakpoint	Class prefix	What changes
Under 576px	(none / xs)	Single column throughout. Navbar is collapsed behind the toggler. Hero, About and Footer columns stack; Shop and Why show one card per row.
576px and up	sm	Shop grid moves to two cards per row (row-cols-sm-2).
768px and up	md	Shop grid moves to three cards per row; Why Lucky Beauty moves to three columns; Footer's brand/social/signup columns share one row unevenly (6 / 3 / 3).
992px and up	lg	Navbar expands into a single row (navbar-expand-lg) and the toggler disappears. Hero and About become two-column layouts. FAQ intro and accordion sit side by side. Footer becomes three even columns.
1200px and up	xl	Container gets its widest fixed max-width; extra breathing room around the hero copy.
